A dispatch from Osgood, Ind., says:
"A hog belonging to William Dopp,
proprietor of the Ripley House here,
Thursday went into the rear of Eckert's hardware store and ate about a quart of nitro-glycerine. He then went into Raw's livery stable and was kicked by a horse, when he exploded,
blowing the hog to fragments and slightly damaging the stable and blowing hog bristles through a three-inch board."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Tom Bowling.

The Jesamine Journal says: The once noted race horse, Tom Bowling, winner of many of the great stake events of his day and the pride of his owner, the late Price McGrath, passed through Nicholasville, Tuesday en route to Garrard county, the home of his new owner, Mr. Dick McGrath. Tom Bowling has been owned by Mr. S. C. Lyne, of Bannock, for several years, and through respect to the memory of the dead turfman, Mr. Price McGrath, Mr. Lyne has presented the renowned old racer to his nephew, Mr. Dick McGrath, of Garrard county. The old hero was looking vigorous and would scarcely take him to be more than 10 years of age, though he is past two score.

At Column Rates.

We wonder how much Mr. Halstead pays the Commercial Gazette for printing his daily advertisements over the name under the head of correspondence. It appears daily next to reading matter.—Louisville Post.

John H. Mason, one of the best known farmers and business men in this entire section, executed a deed of assignment on Thursday to Mr. A. A. Hazlerig, a prominent attorney of this city. Mr. Mason's individual debts could have been handled without difficulty, but his generous disposition would not allow him to say so, to a friend, and consequently he found himself so deeply involved in others that, in order to protect his own creditors and save himself from absolute ruin by having his property forced on the market during the present depressed state of business, he was driven to this step. Mr. Mason's assets under any favorable condition of the money market, far exceed his liabilities, and we, together with his wide circle of friends in this part of the State, hope soon to see him out of his difficulties. He is a thrifty, energetic and upright business man who will pay every dollar he owes or has bound himself for. During the past year he has, beside liquidating part of his own obligations, paid over eight thousand dollars of security debts, and would, if granted the time he asked for, have satisfied every creditor in full. He will do it yet. But just now there is no fixed value to property, and he has to be forced on the market, simply meant personal ruin and a loss to his creditors. We were associated in business with John Mason for nearly two years and know him to be as honest as any man who lives, and we have full faith that he will come out of all his difficulties before any great length of time.

One of our city papers hears of some anonymous letters that "breathed out threats of dynamite and were ornamented with crude drawings of skulls, cross bones, etc.," directed to Mr. Z. T. Young, an attorney at this bar. If Mr. Young has received any such letters, the writer is infinitely worse than the man to whom they are directed, let the latter be so bad as he may be pictured by the former. The devil is at his old tricks again, possibly.

City Attorney James Butler, of St. Louis who was summoned before Mayor Walbridge to answer six charges, and to show cause why he should not be removed from office, walked out of the Mayorality court and left his defense to take care of itself. Butler's latest exploit was the shooting of James Leary in a bawdy-house, over a dispute regarding a crap game.

Another Crank.

Rev. E. H. Beardsley, a Methodist preacher and evangelist, pleaded guilty in Criminal Court at Birmingham, Ala., Tuesday, to grand larceny, and will be sent to the mines. Last spring he conducted a revival at Pratt City, where are located the mines in which the convicts work. Shortly afterward he stole a suit of clothes from a store. These he returned. He seems to think he is called to work among the convicts and took this method of getting there.

The Senate on Friday confirmed the nomination of Messrs. S. B. Holmes for Postmaster at Frankfort; J. W. Rout for Postmaster at Stanford; and C. P. Weaver for Postmaster at Louisville.

Robbing The Farmer.

Under robber tariffs wheat has dropped from $1.47 per bushel in 1872 to 50 cents in 1893, and in that time cotton has dropped from 14 cents a pound to 7 cents.—Hopkinsville News.

The Monarch Milling Company, of this city, has contracted to build in the Richmond City system, which will greatly improve its milling facilities. The expense of putting in these improvements will be about six thousand dollars, and when completed, this will be second to none in grade. These will enable the mill to make better flour, and a more universal grade. Besides this its capacity will be increased from seventy-five to one hundred and twenty-five barrels a day, and the cost per day will not be materially changed. This outlay of money, considering quantity and quality of flour, and the expense of making it is according to business principles, and we congratulate the managers of this company upon their enterprise. It has been that merchants of Mt. Sterling have been purchasing flour from other localities, but after this all their purchases can be made at home, and the flouring companies will be enabled to fill their orders on demand. It would be no bad idea for the milling companies to buy up all the wheat raised in this locality, manufacture it and leave all of its products at home.

Took the Medicine, but Made a Wry Face Over It.

The unwelcome task of introducing a petition in favor of the passage of the Wilson bill fell to Senator Hoar last week. It was signed by twenty-four labor organizations of Massachusetts, and urged the passing of the bill. "These gentlemen," said the Senator "with some sarcasm, "are very much interested in the reduction of the hours of labor and the passage of the Wilson bill will prevent any hours of labor at all."

A St. Joseph special says: The Burlington "Eli," leaving this city at 6:25 p. m., was held up about three miles east of St. Joseph by five masked men Wednesday night. The train was stopped by tarpedoes being placed on the track and a red lantern swung across the road. Three of the robbers boarded the engine with drawn revolvers and ordered the engineer and fireman to accompany them to express car and order express messenger to open the door. This they did. Three others, with revolvers in each hand, had entered the car, and the messenger was ordered to open the safe. He did so. The robbers then took all there was in the safe, which amount is claimed by the railroad officials not to exceed $50.

Railroad Meeting.

The Hazel Green Herald reports a meeting of the citizens of Maytown looking to the extending of encouragement and aid in the building of the proposed railroad from Rothwell to Caney coal fields, and among other things done the following resolution was passed:

"Resolved, That it is the purpose of this meeting that those present, and all other citizens of Maytown and vicinity, extend a hearty welcome to said railroad company, and will use every effort in their power to secure the right of way for said road, also the stone and timber along the line."

Sam Wilson was hanged at St. Louis Friday morning for murdering his mistress.

The New Departure.

The action taken by some of the leading merchants of this place in changing to invariable and unexceptionable cash terms, is a step in the right direction. Pay for what you get as you get it, is certainly better. If it had been more strictly observed in the past both would have been better off. Many other of our merchants are offering very special inducements to cash buyers, and no doubt they will find their customers very glad to take advantage of the lower prices for the money.

The day when a promiscuous credit business will be done in this section we think is probably past. The severer lesson we have received by reason of the times through which we are passing, will, we hope, teach us all the salutary lesson of paying more nearly for what we buy when we buy it. It may be a little hard for some of us who have all our lives long been used to making a draft on the future for the needs of the present, to come to a strictly cash basis, but we will all be better for the doing it. We have this pointer to give to our readers, viz., watch the columns of the ADVOCATE and you will find those merchants speaking through it who have special bargains to offer buyers in their several lines.

The Why Of It.

Judge Van B. Young, of the Superior Court, who died something more than a year ago, used to tell of meeting an old lady who was one of the pioneers of Bath County, and asking her how it happened that the earlier Kentucky families were so noted for strength and hardihood. He told her he could not understand it since the exposure they endured was calculated to have a different effect. "Not so," said the old lady, "They lived in unchinked log cabins, slept on beds of leaves where the snow could drift in upon them, and where rain could drip down through the rough clap-boards. They were bare foot nearly all the time, and were scantily supplied with food. That hardened them," she said "and it was a survival of the fittest, for all the puny ones died."—Helen T. Stanton in Louisville Post.

A strange political fight is being organized in Denver Colorado. Ever since Colorado gave women the right of suffrage the Women's Christian Temperance Association has been actively engaged in getting its members and Sympathizers to register, for the purpose of fighting the liquor law. To offset this the German American Society has caused its women and friends, to be registered to the number of 2,000 during the past month. The fight promises to be bitter.

Two Assignments.

Mr. Joseph Turley assigned to W. T. Fitzpatrick, on Thursday last. Mr. Turley is an active business man, who has many friends who will be glad to see him well out of his difficulties. On Thursday, Mr. William Spencer, a prominent farmer of the county, also assigned to R. C. Robinson. Assets and liabilities not given in either case.

An International Exhibition of grand proportions to be held at Atlanta, Ga., is being agitated. Its object is to bring together all of the agricultural and mechanical products of the South, and introduce them to the world. Mexico heartily endorses it and will contribute. It is the idea of this republic to push her products into the United States.

Circuit Court.

Montgomery Circuit Court convened Monday. Judge John E. Cooper and Commonwealth Attorney C. W. Nesbitt were on hand ready to attend to the duties of their respective offices.

Judge Cooper delivered a charge to the grand jury, reciting their duties and bringing before their minds the entire catalogue of crime known to the law, and placed the interests of this community into the hands of the grand jury.

The following named gentlemen composing the jury, having been selected by the jury commissioners appointed at the last term of the Court, answered their names:

GRAND JURY.

Esq. J. W. Richardson, Barney Carter, Marshall Matthews, Samuel Estis, W. H. Moore, Samuel Green, James Donovan, A. J. Ware, D. D. Hurst, John J. Anderson, John T. Magowan, and James Johnson. Mr. John J. Anderson was appointed foreman by the Court.

PETIT JURY.

Seth Combs, William Morton, J. C. Turley, Robert Fletcher, George Kimball, W. L. Morris, John Redmon, N. M. Moon, John Peggs, John Corbett, T. C. Graves, John McMillan, W. P. Drake, Alvin Thomas, E. L. Brantlett, J. J. Robinson, Zera Welch, Frank Gibbons, Frank Murphy, Joseph Stephens, John Knox, George C. Smith, J. H. Anderson, and H. C. Hurst.

Murder cases to come on during this Court: H. G. Bowling for the murder of See Brown, and Bill Turner for the murder of Tom Hunt.

Ordinary appearances will be called to-day and equity cases Wednesday. Visiting attorneys present at the beginning of the Court: Hampton Bush, Winchester; H. L. Stone, Louisville; William Young, Morehead; J. H. Wilburn, Frenchburg.

What tampering boots left to our people, the Columbia Finance and Trust Company, Trustee of the New Farmers Bank, seems bent on sweeping away from us. Of course no one will accuse any one of those immaculate, yclept attorneys, of urging on any or all of the needless litigation that may or may not have been indulged in. Some people evidently think they have a good-sized slice of world in a sling and can afford to indulge in Mr. Vanderbilt's forbore, if not polite aphorism, "the public be damned!"

John Tyree, formerly of this county, present at W. T. Tyler with a pair of buck's horns, which measured 18 inches from head to tip and same in width. Mr. Tyree killed this buck and three others in Wisconsin.

PENNARY MINE.

Pennary mine is dark and deep.
Eight foot shaft, eight hundred deep.
Bough the bucket and touch the coal,
Strong as the arm of Wladimir Ford.
Never look down,
Stick to the line.
That was the saying at Pennary mine.
A stranger came to Pennary mine,
Lord, to see how the miners laughed.
White in the collar and stiff in the hat,
With his shining boots and his silk cravat,
Picking his way,
Dainty and dandified.
Stepping on tips to Pennary mine?
Tearing from London—on his heels;
Was it empty that the mine had?
Where did they find it? How hot it came?
If he tried with a shovel, might he get some?
Shooting so much
Was bad for the spies,
And wasn't it wretched in Pennary mine?
"Two like two words that met that day—
The world of work and the world of play—
And the gritty lads from the rock-drift's Nudged each other, and grinned and chaffed."
"Got 'em all out!"
"A couple of mines!"
So ran the hunter at Pennary mine.
And Carbine took the Pennary wit,
Told him the facts about the pit,
How they bored the shaft till the bottom
smell
Warned them off from tapping—well,
He wouldn't say what.
To do no deeper in Pennary mine.
Then, leaning over and peering in,
He was pointing out what he said was in the ten foot level—cracks, a jet
A grasping hand and a splintered bar.
Come in the
With the lips that laughed!
Oh, the pale faces at Pennary shaft!
Peeked down on a narrow ledge,
They saw him climb, they saw him tread
"Wait for the bucket! Ill man, stay!"
That rope ain't safe, was the cry.
He's taking his chance!
Black out on the Sweet Lord, be with them!" cried Pennar-
by mine.
"He's him! He's him! Pull with a
will!
Thank God! He over and breathing still,
And he—Lord, what's that?"
Well,
Showed if it ain't our London swell!
Your heart is right,
If your eyes are true,
Give us your hand!" cried Pennary Mine.
—A. Conan Doyle in Pall Mall Magazine.

THE ROBBER'S HOARD.

"If this grows much worse, had we not better turn out of the road and apply at the Kenneths for shelter
for the night?" said the husband,
saying gloomily the straining of the horses as they endeavored to lift the heavy carriage out of the black mud
of the Mississippi road.
But the wife gave a shudder and replied: "Oh, no, never, never, Arthur. You know they say"—here
lowering her voice lest the negro outlier should hear—"that old Colonel Kenneth and the boys are still plunging to Murrell's band, and I for one
believe it."
"Well, I do not. There is no more harm in the old colonel than in me.
Think, Mary, at the moment I am certainly he is not one to hold with such a band as John Murrell and his gang of cutthroats. Still we will
it awhile longer, though the next
turning leads to the Kenneth place,
and you would be assured of a good night's rest, and the Lord only knows when we will get into Carrolton at this rate of progress."
The lady still shook her head, and leaning from the window encouraged the negroes to make greater efforts to extricate the fighting horses.
There was a sudden heave of the body of the vehicle, and as the wheels emerged once more, a crack,
and the driver cried, "Dar, now, the slede done bruk, marster, an what
we gwine do?"
"That settles it, Mary," said her husband. "We can go no farther."
Then calling to the negroes he ordered them to cut loose the two front horses from the carriage and bring them to the side, where he and his wife might mount. This done he led the two horses to the station, the mansion house of which showed its chimneys just over the tops of the trees, while behind the servants on the two front horses, and the other carriage horses. As they approached the house a group of dark browed men were seen congregated on its wide vine hung porch,
and a fire of curious glances was turned on them.
A tall old man with a snow white flowing beard rose from his seat in the midst of the crowd and came forward to take Arthur Shannon's hand as that gentleman led out his own, saying:
"This is Colonel Kenneth, is it not?
I have heard much of you, sir, both
from our mutual friend, Judge Irving of Jackson, and have ventured to throw my wife and myself on your hospitality. My carriage has met with an accident."
"I thank the accident that has sent me such guests," said the old man,
with the punctilious courtesy that marked the antebellum southern aristocrat. "Come in at once. My daughters will welcome Mrs. Shannon, and supper will be served in half an hour."
He led the way into the house,
with no notice of the men on the porch, who were all gone when the Shannons came down to supper in
the splendid old parlors of the Kenneth "boys" alone remained.
They were fine looking, well grown
young men of silent yet alert manner, saying little, while Colonel Kenneth's daughters two dark eyed girls of 17 or 18, rarely spoke except
to invite the attention of their guests
to some dish. It was not until Mrs.
Shannon had retired to her room
that her husband told her the hand to their chamber that she dared even suffer her thoughts to dwell on what she suspected, but on her expressing this her husband laughed

and told her to go to sleep, as they had a long journey before them on the morrow.
But sleep was far from the little woman's eyelids, and she lay awake
thinking of many things until last her quick ear caught the sound of 15 or 20 horses being ridden into
the yard before the house, and springing from the bed she ran to the window and peeping out saw
the men of the afternoon dismount
and enter.
Soon a murmur of voices announced to her that a party was being held in the room below, and a fever to overhear what was being said took possession of her. She could see a figure pacing up and down before the house, and under guard, so that the congress below
must fear interruption or capture.
She quietly opened the door and stole down the dark stairs leading to the second floor, which were un-
lighted, as was the hall below.
She paused at the door under which
a glimmer of light told her was that of the council chamber and listened.
"No, I will not have it. They are my guests," said the voice of her host, and a low murmur told her
that the appeal to the laws of hospitality had found answer in many languages, but a tone that made her start took up the question. It was that of a neighbor of her own, a man from the south, but then this hand numbered members from every quarter.
"Well, boys, we're in this thing
for business and not sentiment, and I happen to know that Arthur Shannon carries over $5,000 in bills about
his waist in a belt."
"The senator speaks truth. We are engage in this for de silvare, not for de talk and feelings. But dis gentil'man has money, is it our business to tek care of it for him," said
the sibilant tones of a Mexican.
It will go to swell that little nest
egg—ye know what you people say
"—hidden down in the swamp."
There was a sudden exclamation
and a cry of "The chief! the chief!"
as a man swung himself in from the fields opening out on the yard. He had passed the sentinel with a muttered signal word, and thus taken
his followers by surprise.
Murrell, the celebrated robber
chiefdom of the south before the war, stood before them, his keen black eyes glancing about him and noting every face.
"What is this dispute?" he asked,
and when Colonel Kenneth placed it before him answered briefly: "His pityalty protects him. Now, men,
there is no serious business before us tonight. The governor has offered $20,000 reward for the betrayal
of the band, $10,000 for me dead or alive, preferably dead, and $2,000 in gold for each of you if taken separately."
He paused and looked about once
more; then, with his eyes narrowed
to mere lines of lurid light, went on:
"And Frederick has played the Judas and sold us."
Every man leaped to his feet with a deep curse and drew the knife at his belt as if eager to draw it across
the traitor's throat, but an uplifted
hand staid them.
"He knows the hiding place of the treasure—it must be moved at once.
A member of the police of Jackson
gave me warning, and I rode hither
tonight, only an hour in advance of the officers. No time is to be lost.
Select three of your number to go with me to assist in removing the gold plate—that will be enough—
the others will be advised of what we do later on. The rest, besides the three, disperse at once to your homes or ride or foot, as you think there is or is not proof against
you. You all know how to communicate with me if necessary."
The three were wisely chosen, and the others went noiselessly out, the
figure in the hall shrinking behind the door as it swung open. Armed then with a lantern, Murrell and his workmen stole across the plantation
toward the river, and after them
went, as stealthily as a panther, the woman. But the rough ground pained her feet, thrusting in bed room slippers, and exhausted she drew her dark woollen robe about
her and leaned against a tree, watching the light dancing of the lantern.
Then she knew the men were carrying the treasure out into the river in
a skiff.
The black object rose just above the sullen water, touched here and there
into blood by the light they bore,
and here the boat paused, and there was a few moments' silent work
then the three figures emerged, and climbed up in the vessel and took the oar, but an instant later there rang
out a succession of rapid shots
and the three were pitched forward out of the boat, and striking the water sunk out of sight. The third gave a shrill shriek and flung
its arms about the tall man wrapped
in the cloak, crying:
"Don't shoot again, Murrell, Shannon, and you shall have all the treasure for yourself. Only let me live."
But he replied that he was not plowing his way through his hands
and Murrell, seizing his oars, sent
the boat toward the shore with long skilful strokes. He stopped here to wash from the eyes of the traitor
fresh blood, and taking advantage of the moment Mary Shannon fled
back to the house, and slipping past

the colonel, whom she recognized
by his long, white beard, seeking the shelter of the huge pillars of the porch, she regained her room and brought as she slipped off her woolen cloak she heard from the window.
"Yes, it is in a safe place."
"And Harper and Freer and Ur-win?"
"They have crossed the river and
are flying toward the border."
"My horse ready? Goodbye. You shall hear from me."
When the Shannon descended in the morning it was to find the place deserted. Every man, woman and child had fled during the night.
Of the hundred slaves not one was left. All had been transferred across the river and were far on their way
with their master in his flight from justice. They had gone so silently that the Shannon's servants had not even been aroused. After an hour or so the officers from Jackson arrived.
They had lost their way during the gloom of the night, and came now to find their horse down, and though Fredericks led the way to the spot
where the treasure had laid that,
too, was gone, and none might say
where it now was.
Years passed away, the war was over, the south lay prostrate, suffering for her sublime folly, and Mary Shannon was no longer the property
staring her in the face. Too delicate ly nurtured to understand how to profitably, she had won a bare livelihood with her needle, when, one day, nursing over her past life and the memory of that awful night in that robber's den, came to her like an inspiration—the treasure! None could claim it, or she should have an owner for the stolen articles she had heard mentioned she would of course restore them, but the great mass would be impossible of identification.
With her last coin she bought a ticket back to the old Kenneth plantation, to find it lying ruined, the fields overrun with blackberry vines,
weeds and rank vegetation, in which the "bob whites" made merry and
the nimble farks skipped fearlessly.
Recalling every incident of that night, she stole once more across the open yard and soon found the tree
under which she waited to see the feared tragedy on the water. She knew it by the great gnarled trunk that reached out over her head like a menacing arm, and on the line of her vision as she looked toward the river she beheld a small islet and knew that there hidden away in the treasure purchased by crime and dyed with blood and sealed by treachery.
Murrell had been taken that very night and brought to prison, where he never told his secret, but suffered to die with him. The rest of the gang had scattered to the four corners of the globe, and Murrell had looked in vain for the hiding
place, the story of which had never been told them.
Hiring a small boat and accompanied by four negroes from the nearest village to whom she told of the family plan concealed there during the war, Mary Shannon and the islet
thoroughly searched, but nothing was found of the box, and she was about to conclude that the whole scene had been but a phantom seen
in a dream, when she remembered
to have seen the boat bend nearly to the water's edge by the weight of the four men on that eventful night
as if they loved something into the river to give it to the keeping of the river god himself.
She noted a stump that leaned far out over the water, and though the men warned her that she must not come into contact with a water moc-
assin she passed it over the water,
following it end under the murky
side, and thrilled with fear, she felt a chain tightly bound about her.
She tried then to pull the chain up,
but it was weighted heavily at the other end, and it took the united strength of all four of her crew to raise it. The "it" was a stout chest of cedar bound about with iron and clashed with a large padlock.
Once in her room in the hotel of the little town, which she made her headquarters, she opened this box to gaze down with amazement at the handfuls of golden coins, gleaming
sizes and massive plate, in value
amounting to nearly $1,000,000.
For much of the last she found claimants, as it was marked with names illustrious in the history of adjoining ones, but with the money
and jewels she restored her family
home, so that at last heaven's blessing rested on the old man's head, and his golden gains, Philadelphia Times.

New York's Dog Parade.

An interesting display of dogs was seen on Fifth avenue, in New York city,
is the procession of dogs out for exercise. They are of all sorts and sizes, and they are very numerous,
and in trios, sometimes muzzled and always in the care of a keeper. Between Forty and street and Twenty thousand dogs, and their keepers
are about as well as the dogs, and
the parade on Fifth avenue as the permanent landmarks of the thoroughfare.—Exchange.

Address Rev. Thomas C. Moore, D.
D., Holy Cross, Kan. 23-41

A dispatch from Victoria, B. C., says the United States steamer Albatross
reports having made deep-sea
soundings on the coast of Alaska,
reaching a depth of 4500 fathoms,
which, it is added, is "the greatest depth ever reached." If that is meant the deepest soundings ever made in any ocean there must be a mistake in
the figures reported, or the claim is not correct. The depth of 27,000 feet has been exceeded three times. In what is called the "international deep,"
near the island of St. Thomas,
one of the West Indies, independent soundings were made by American and English officers, and a depth of 27,266 feet was established. In 1874
British ship Challenger found a depth of 37,450 feet near the Ladrone Islands
in the Pacific Ocean, and in the same year the United States ship Tuscarora,
under command of Captain Geo.
E. Belknap, sounded to the depth of 29,300 feet near the Kurile Islands, in the North Pacific. This is the lowest point yet reached, being over five and one-fourth miles, or nearly equal to the height of the Himalayas. In the days before scientific deep-sea soundings were made, reports of depths of 7000 to 8000 fathoms having been reached, but these are now conceded to have been apocryphal. The Tuscarora's record of 4501 fathoms stands without rival as yet.—Ex.

The Forum

"The Greatest of our Periodicals."

The foremost men of the world write the literature
of contemporaneous activity for THE FORUM.

Every great subject is taken up by The Forum when it naturally comes into public attention and is treated by the best authorities, without regard to parties or creeds. It will keep any thoughtful reader informed on the topics and problems of the time, as no other periodical does.

To many thoughtful people, the price of The Forum has hitherto been prohibitory; indeed all the great Reviews have been too high in price for the masses of intelligent readers. But now the number of readers of thoughtful literature —men and women who wish really to know what is going on in the world outside the narrow limits of particular sects and parties—is great enough in the United States to warrant a revolutionary reduction in price. The Forum discusses important subjects, but it is not dull. The literature of contemporaneous activity is, in fact, the most interesting of all literature. American citizenship implies that a man shall know the opinions of the foremost men and the latest great achievements in every direction of activity.

SIZE AND QUALITY UNCHANGED.

The Forum is now as cheap as the magazines of mere entertainment.

Merit Wins.
We desire to say to our citizens, that
for years we have been selling Dr.
King's New Discovery for Consumption,
Dr. King's New Life Pills,
Buckley's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction.
We do not hesitate to guarantee them
every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use.
These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. W. S.
Lloyd Druggist.

A New Departure.
Beginning with the 1st of January,
1894, we will adopt a STRICTLY CASH SYSTEM. We take this departure from the old established manner of doing business that has been so long in vogue in Kentucky
after due thought and deliberation
knowing it is not only to our interest, but that it is to the interest of every one. We are driven to this course by the great stringency
in money matters, and the difficulty of collecting our accounts when due, the abuse of the Credit System being on the increase continually.
To those who have so kindly patronized us in the past, we extend our sincere thanks and trust
they will realize the importance of this "New Departure" by continuing to give us their patronage.
21-41 R. M. & T. K. BARNES.

Fire at the White City.
The problem as to what shall be done with the buildings of the World's Fair was partially solved on Monday night, January 8. A fire broke out in the Casino and destroyed the Peristyle Music Hall and a partially burned the great Liberal Arts Building.
In the latter building were stored
many foreign exhibits, boxed and awaiting release by the Custom's
officials, in order to be shipped.
Many of these were greatly injured
by both fire and water. The firemen made heroic efforts to control the fire and after a six hours fight succeeded, though not so great was feared. One fireman lost his life, and others were desperately injured.

The Joel Foster residence on Howard street, recently damaged by fire, is being rapidly put in repair.

The headquarters of the military department of the South is to be established at Atlanta, Ga.

The House of Commons adjourned Friday night till February 12, after passing the Parish Councils Bill.

Those who use Howe & Johnson's seven year old blue ribbon, 75¢ quart whisky do not have the gripe. 25-31

During the past week there were 254 business failures throughout the United States, as compared with 286 the corresponding week of last year.

Married, Monday evening at the home of the bride, Miss Annie, daughter of A. J. Ware, to S. J. Barber.

The Columbia Finance and Trust Company, Trustee of the New Farmers' Bank, is plaintiff in a long list of suits in our Court at this term. This same Columbia Finance and Trust Company is exercising about as much discretion in the execution of its trust as "the bull in the china shop" might be expected to do.

Pretty little 5-year-old Maud Davis died a most horrible death from hydrophobia at St. Louis, Tuesday. Her case is remarkable for the fact that she died after an illness of only two days, from a scratch she received from playing with a pet dog nearly four years ago.

The Sterling Dancing Club entertained last Tuesday night at Commercial Club rooms, and those who attended say the occasion was a highly enjoyable one. It was given in honor of the Misses Blisick, two of Lexington's interesting young ladies.

The County Board of Supervisors of the tax books which has been in session for a number of days adjourned Thursday, to meet again to-morrow, when it will hear any objections that may be urged from parties who think their assessments on property should not be increased.

Three young men from this city concluded they would take a walk on Sunday afternoon. They extended their tramp to Sharpsburg before either would suggest a return toward home. Ten o'clock found three "dead tired" boys sneaking off to their beds after their 22-mile tramp, each wondering if there were three bigger fools in the State than they voted themselves to be.

The topographers or levelers of the Brass surveying were guests of the Day House Wednesday night, and The Herald man talked with them about the topography of the route. One of them said that the country over which they had passed between Casey and this place was all that could be desired, and added that on that day they had traveled further and found fewer impediments than on any day since leaving Morehead on the other side. He said if the rest of the route was as good as that covered up to Wednesday evening there could be no objection to it.—Hazel Green Herald.

Death has been busy among our old people during the last week or two.

We are called upon to chronicle the demise of another. Mrs. Ann M. Ross, aged 82 years, died on Saturday morning after a lingering illness, of catarrh of the stomach. Born in Fayette county, Ky., February 3, 1812, she married when she grew to womanhood Judge Thos. Ross, and some thirty-five years ago she came to Mt. Sterling to make her home. Several children were born to her, five of whom died in infancy and but one, Mrs. W. W. Halbert, of Philadelphia, survives her. Mrs. Ross was long and widely known in our town, with whose interests she has for so long been identified.

Mrs. Halbert has been at her mother's bedside for several months past ministering to the wants of the aged one. Mr. Halbert will reach here to-day in time to attend the funeral which will be preached this afternoon at 3:30 by Elder W. T. Tibbs.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. L. Ellison, of Covington, is attending Circuit court.

Mrs. Virginia Chenault is quite sick at her home near this city.

Nathan Sorrell, of Bethel, was in the city Monday on business.

Rezin A. Soboe, of Winchester, was in the city yesterday attending Court.

Col. Phil Thompson, of Harrodsburg, was in the city last Thursday on business.

Harvison Bailey left last Sunday for Washington where he will engage in business.

Miss Louise Bomar left for Versailles Saturday, after a pleasant visit to friends in this city.

Mrs. Louise Andrews returned Saturday night last from her visit to Owingsville and Mt. Sterling.

Ed. Reis has returned from the East where he sold several carloads of ducks and geese at fair prices.

Col. John T. Hazelrigg returned from Knoxville, Tenn., where he had been on legal business, Monday.

R. A. Chiles and W. C. Hoffman went to Paris Thursday night to honor comedian, Nat C. Goodwin.

W. R. Lane, of Winchester, one of the leading insurance men of the State was in the city on business Monday.

F. R. Toewater, who is the Louisville buyer of the St. Louis Tobacco Manufacturers, Leggett & Myers, was in the city last Friday.

Mrs. M. A. Weedon, of Mt. Sterling, came down last week to visit her mother, Mrs. I. K. Vansant.—Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.

Mrs. John J. Cornelson will return home from Hot Springs to-day. Mr. Cornelson is in St. Louis and will return the latter part of the week.

Miss Minnie Lee Denton, of Bourbon county, is visiting her sister, Mary Ellen, in this city. She came up Saturday and will remain several days.

Mr. Charles H. Duty, we are glad to note, is so much improved as to be able to leave the hospital. He will be here with his friends and relatives to-morrow.

Mr. T. J. Bigstaff, who has been at Hot Springs for the past two months being treated for rheumatism returned home Monday evening greatly improved.

Mrs. Allen Prewitt and son, Brick, who went to Hill City, Kansas, to visit Henry B. Prewitt, returned on Wednesday. They brought with them the three-week-old motherless babe left to the care of an almost heart broken husband and father by the untimely death of Mrs. H. R. Prewitt.

Mr. J. W. Holden, of the Mt. Sterling Advocate, was in town last week. Mrs. Ida Beall, of Mt. Sterling, has moved to Winchester to spend the winter. Roy C. Kern, cashier of the Louisville Safety and Loan Company, receiver of the New Farmers' Bank, of Mt. Sterling, was in the city Thursday last on business.—Winchester Sun.

Ready.

The Columbia Finance & Trust Company having brought suits at this term of circuit court aggregating in amount more than $100,000 is ready to take judgment and then move on our best business men thereby depriving them of their hard earnings. This they will do if they can, to make not a dollar for the stock holders, said to be about 20 cents on the dollar for the depositors, and as large a sum as possible for themselves and their attorneys. How is this in the face of the statement of J. G. Trimble, temporary receiver which showed better things.

Less Wheat Sown.

Replies from 3,384 grain men and millers in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Kansas and Missouri, which make two-thirds of the entire winter wheat crop, to inquiries by C. A. King & Co., show a smaller acreage than last year. Michigan reports 25 per cent. less. The crop goes into winter in good condition. About three-eighths of the crop of 1893 has not been marketed yet.

RELIGIOUS.

Rev. I. W. Willis, of Richmond, will preach at the Howard's Mill Baptist Church next Sunday morning.

Elder W. S. Keene, of Covington, has accepted the call of the congregation of the First Christian church at Winchester to serve as pastor.

Rev. Everett Gill, of Missouri, preached at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. Mr. Gill has a style peculiarly his own, attractive and impressive. He engages the attention of his congregation from the beginning and holds it to the close. He will preach here again next Sunday morning and evening.

Rev. Joseph S. Felix, formerly a pastor in the Bracken Association, who has been laboring at Lynchburg, Va., the past few years, has been called to the pastorate of the Baptist church at Winchester. Mr. Felix was a favorite among Kentucky Baptist preachers, and the news of his return to Kentucky will be received with gladness.

A German.

The German given by Mrs. Charles Scott at her residence last evening, in honor of Miss Annie Johnson, of Mt. Sterling, was in every way an elegant affair. The cotillion was unusually large, and the young ladies looked especially beautiful in very becoming gowns. It was led by Mr. Lew Brown, and that young gentleman acquitted himself well. There were nine dances, and three of these were figures, the remaining six being favor dances.

Mr. Brown's features were all new and exceptionally pretty. The favors were new in design and many of them beautiful and costly. In one dance the favors were ribbons with numbers on them and these numbers were to come in good part when the drawing for the prize of the evening took place. The drawing came off, and, strange to say, the lucky number was held by the guest of honor, Miss Johnson. About eleven o'clock there was a temporary cessation of dancing and an elegant supper was served to the guests.

The first four was as follows: Messers, and Misses Lou Brown and Annie Johnson, Frank Justice and Virginia Bowman, Elmer Bailey and Mary Bradley, William Samuel and Ada Bailey.

Miss Anna Johnson, Miss Daisy Winston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott, and Messers, Lou Brown and Steve Swift, Jr., will form a box party at the Paris opera house to-night. Nat Goodwin is to appear in "A Gilded Fool."—Lexington Transcript, Jan. 11

Sheriff's Sale for Taxes.

McCloskey building on South Mayaville street was sold to Mrs. A. E. Mitchell, $150.97 for taxes for 1891 and 1893.

R. A. Mitchell's residence on West Main street for taxes 1893, for $141.89, to Mrs. A. E. Mitchell. House and lot of Farmer Hawkins on Queen street, to J. W. Barnes, for $10.10.

Pat Dales' estate, farm on Hinkson of 31 acres, R. M. & T. K. Barnes for $12.50.

Two acres of land in Jeffersonville belonging to H. G. Bowling, taxes for 1891-2-3, to J. Coleman Reid for $13.75.

Sir James Crockett Browne, the expert on brain diseases, asserted in a popular lecture recently that insomnia is not attended with such disastrous consequences as is commonly supposed. It is not as dangerous as the soliloquy of the sufferer. He suggested that the brain of literary men, who are the most frequent victims, acquire the trick of the heart, which takes a dose of a fraction of a second after each beat, and so manages to get six hours rest in twenty-four. Some brains, in cases of insomnia, sleep in sections, different brain centres going off duty in turn.

Miss Genevieve Ringo, daughter of Mr. H. H. Ringo, was riding home back on Sunday afternoon, near home, when her horse took fright and in springing off she alighted on the ground so as to break a leg just above the ankle.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Stepstone.

Tom Steele has rented the Eli Hamilton farm and moved to it.

Mrs. Will Alexander is quite sick with a gripe and neuralgia.

Mrs. Margaret Helwig, of Mt. Sterling, visited relatives here the past week.

Henderson Phipps has rented the E. J. William Coons farm; price, $1200.

Miss Tipton, of Owingsville, visited her sister, Mrs. E. L. Payne, the past week.

Charley Henry rented 28 acres of land belonging to the J. Young heirs Saturday; price, $150.

Very little tobacco has been bought in this neighborhood; yet most farmers are through stripping.

William Cox has swapped his land here for property in Fleming county, and will move March 1st.

A. B. Carmichael sold his crop of tobacco to Kirkpatrick for 7 cents. Moses Karrik, George Turley, Joe Carpenter and John Kincaid, each, sold their tobacco to J. M. Richart for 8 cents.

Our old familiar enemy, the gripe, is in our midst once more, and among its victims are Mrs. Georgie Thompson, Miss Lillie Thompson and a little son of the Karrik's, all are convalescent, however.

Revee, Ky.

Sam Hainline's hogs are dying with cholera.

Mt. Gilead and Macedonia churches are without pastors at present.

The farmers are all busy breaking their soil for corn and tobacco.

Mrs. Nancy Bartlett, of Clark county, is visiting her son, Richard Bartlett.

John Paslay has rented land from M. W. Anderson to be tilled in corn and tobacco.

Lewis Paslay, of Estill county, has been visiting his children in this section the past week.

Several hares are moving back to Clay City, as the big saw mill will start up again in a few days.

Notwithstanding the goose-bone and the hogs' melts and the false prophets, we are having the nicest winter weather we have had for years.

Rev. H. L. Watts, who was called to preach at Macedonia church last year and failed to fill his last three appointments on account of ill health, we are sorry to learn is now confined to his room with consumption.

As there were some reflections cast on Jud Barnett when Mose Barnett was arrested at his house, I will just say I have been acquainted with Jud Barnett, and John Barnett, his father, for years, and I have always known them as honest, law-abiding citizens, and that there is no den of desperadoes in this section of the county.

Dan Reffert, whose time has just expired in the State prison, broke into George Berry's meat house a few nights ago took a overcoat that was in there, put the lock in his pocket, loaded up with meat and pulled out for parts unknown. Berry and his brother were searching for him, but at last account had not caught up with him. Dan is a hustler from 'way back.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

Milking with wet hands is a nasty habit.

Thick cream can be churned colder than thin cream.

It is required abroad that asparagus possess both size and flavor.

It really costs no more to raise the kind of fowls in demand than the one not wanted.

Milk containing 2 1/2 per cent. of fat and 12 per cent. of solids is considered good milk.

Good farming means good roads, good fences, good gates, good buildings, well drained lands and clean fields.

Apples which have been frozen will be much less injured if kept from the air and allowed to thaw gradually.

It is said that the worms that cut rose leaves may be destroyed with a solution of whale-oil soap or kerosene emulsion.

Recent trials have proved that an excellent quality of broom-corn can be grown in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

The receipts of American apples in Liverpool up to November 31 only amount to 15,272 barrels, against 303,448 barrels to corresponding date last year.

An unusual large number of steers of superior quality were shipped from the West to the London market for the Christmas trade.

The recent report of the nitrate companies shows that all are making money, and that the supply of this fertilizer is practically inexhaustible.

In France currants and other small fruits are planted between the grape rows in small vineyards so as to make the most of the limited area.

The uniform quality of Danish butter and its aroma are the reasons for its popularity. It is all of the same grade, and is colored and salted alike.

Bran is one of the most valuable feeds in the dairy. Its merits are now so recognized that exporters are studying how to compress it for shipment abroad.

Australia soon expects to be a close competitor with California in supplying the Old World at least with dried and canned fruits. Peaches, pears, plums and apricots thrive in South Australia.

Holland excels the world in its average yield of potatoes. That country produces 177 bushels to the acre; Italy comes next with 164; Germany 121; France 102; the United States, 76.

The sum of $22,400 was paid for the bull Duke of Connaught at Lord Dunsink's sale in 1875. This is the largest sum ever reached in England at a public sale of short-horns.

It is good to plough the orchard when the soil is deep so that the roots can go down, but on the thin soil, where the roots keep near the surface, too many of them will be cut by the plough.

Feeding corn to sheep in winter is apt to produce a feverish condition of the system, while often the flock is troubled with humors or eruptions, which causes them to rub or gnaw their fleeces, causing in this way a loss of wool.

A recent computation of the exports of provisions from this country this year, compared with the previous year, showed a decrease of 26,000,000 pounds of pork, 114,000,000 pounds of lard, no change in hams and 181,000,000 decrease in bacon.

England buys of outsiders $50,823,350 worth of butter in the course of the year. The figures and sources of supply with amounts are as follows: Denmark, $4,245,675; France, $15,137,240; other countries, $1,779,610; from the colonies, $3,663,395.

A prize has been awarded in France for a good method of preserving potatoes. It consists in plunging the tubers in water containing 1 1/2 to 2 per cent. of sulphuric acid. The strength of the bath and the duration of immersion are according to the thickness of the skins.

In the grape growing countries of Europe the quality of the grapes has been found to depend largely upon the chemical composition of the soil. The sweetest grapes are produced by those soils containing the largest amount of mineral fertility, while too much nitrogen makes the fruit watery.

A French method of preserving grapes is to place a shoot bearing a couple of bunches of good grapes in a is felt at the premature decline of American women. Habits of life have much to do with prevailing conditions. Their correction will improve coming generations, and corrective medicines have as much to do with the present. Dr. Fenners' Kidney and Bladder Cure is a positive specific in all kidney complaints, gravel, stones in bladder, female weakness and irregularities, much on face, etc., improves appetite and digestion, corrects and restores to normal action all organs of the body and purifies the blood. Also cures headache, backache, dropsy, rheumatism, skin disease, drowsiness, sleeplessness, dizziness, and brings freshness and bloom to the cheeks, elasticity to the step and cheerfulness and contentment to the mind. bottle filled with water containing charcoal in solution. The bottles are then hung along the edges of notch of shelves in a dry place. It is said that if the water be renewed from time to time the grapes will keep until April in good condition.

An Australian farmer having eight acres of maize or corn, which yielded a heavy crop, laid the entire stalks uncut, in three stacks, taking care to lay them all one way without crossing them. He weighted the stacks down with logs and stones. When it had settled he covered the whole with earth two feet deep, raised to a crown on top, which he shaded with corn stalks. The slugs came out in good condition and was greedily eaten by the cattle.

Prof. Henry has found that feeding hops bone meal makes corn go further and that hardwood ashes are nearly as good as bone meal. The effect of the bone meal and ashes was to save 28 per cent. of the corn required to produce 100 pounds of gain. There was about 50 per cent. more ash in the bones of the hops receiving bone meal and hardwood ashes than in the bones of those not so fed.

HORSE NOTES.

Oats is a muscle-building food.

A good horse is never a bad color.

The time for promiscuous horse breeding is past.

The English horse market is good for good horses.

A horse of nervous temperament should never be excited.

There are one-third as many donkeys as horses in Ireland.

More care and intelligence in breeding is essential to large profits.

Horsehoes came into use in the year 900, but were not made of iron until 480.

The Egyptian Government has appointed a commission to improve the native horses.

Warm the bridle bits before putting them into horses' mouths in frosty weather.

Sudden changes in temperature are more trying on horses than continued severe weather.

Corn is not so desirable a food as oats for horses, and is rarely used in the East or in Europe.

Carbs, spavings, and ring-bones in the majority of cases come from an improper bearing.

There is a strong movement in England for the abolition of clock reins on working horses.

A good horse should be energetic, but not nervous, and in action a good walker with some style.

Large, stylish coaches and carriage horses are in demand by city people who care little for speed.

Do not break the constitution of the horse and destroy his ambition when breaking him to harness.

Either raise the better class of horses or quit the business, if you are in it for either money or pleasure.

It requires long, careful and persistent teaching to educate a horse to fill the requirements for a good road horse.

European army officials will have none of our trotters. They demand larger and finer animals and pay liberally for them.

Cattle properly cared for at weaning time will be worth twice as much when two years old as those which are neglected.

Fire at Richmond, Ind., Wednesday morning destroyed the Starr piano works. Loss, $100,000.

The Norton Iron Works at Ashland, Ky., has resumed operations, giving employment to 600 men.

At Atlanta, Thursday, Lewis Rodine pleaded guilty to embezzling $103,118 from the Gate City National Bank. He was given six years in the pen.

D. A. Baker, Cashier for the First National Bank at Norfolk, O., killed himself Wednesday morning. His accounts are straight. Business worry had unsettled his mind.

Judge Van Brunt, of the Supreme Court, of the New York, signed the order committing Edward M. Field to the custody of the Sheriff of Kings county. This virtually means that he will be tried for forgery. The gist of the Judge's order is to the effect that upon certification of the Superintendent of the asylum that Field has regained his reason, he will have to stand trial.

A bold diamond robbery occurred at Stillwater, Mich. The driver of the Adams Express Company rig was delivering packages, and in his sleigh had a package of diamonds from Cincinnati addressed to C. H. Henington. The driver stopped to deliver another package, and when he returned found Henington's package broken and the diamonds gone. The stones are valued at $1500.

Dr. Kerr B. Tupper, pastor of the First Baptist church, Denver, Col., at the weekly meeting of the Baptist ministers of that city announced his belief that in the near future there would be an organized union of the Baptist and Christian churches, under the name of the latter; that he was now in communication with prominent members of both denominations on the subject, and that a part of his business on a contemplated trip to the East is to confer with them in the matter.

In the 23-inch mill of the Carnegie Works at Homestead, Pa., the experiment of rolling 6-inch beams from aluminum for Government vessels is being tried. The first beam was rolled, but was not satisfactory. The aluminum was heated just hot enough to char a pine board, and then submitted to the rolls. In the second pass it collapsed on the rolls and broke two boxes, and the experiment was postponed until later in the week. This is the first experiment of the kind ever tried in the Homestead Steel Works.

Merriwo Sakoiki, a Russian, now of Chicago, tells a tale of a divorce filed there. He states that at the age of 15 his mother enticed him to the town of Sialk, in his native land, blindfolded him and before he was aware of it he was married to a girl upon whose face he had never looked before. His mother, he says, got about $50 for bringing about the marriage, and he got a bride whose charms were few, but they have never lived together here, he says, and he asks that the marriage be annulled.

To Vote, January 30.

Ex-Car T. B. Reed (Rep., Mo) will close the tariff debate for the Republicans on the afternoon of Saturday, January 27. Wilson (Dem., W. Va.), the chairman of the ways and means committee, will perform a similar service for the Democratic majority Monday, January 29. The vote will be taken Tuesday, January 30.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

Embury & Fox sold to Carrithers & Beard, of Lexington, four sugar mules for $500.

Andy English sold the past week to Mr. Kending, of Philadelphia four fine runners for $300 each.

I. C. and N. P. VanMeter sold their Fayette county farm of 315 acres, to their brother, Sol P. VanMeter, $105 per acre.

John Ball, of Woodford county, sold to J. B. Kirk, of Marion county, eighteen of the best yearling mare mules in the State for about $106 per head.

Farris & Whitley have recently bought small bunches of feeders from parties at from $2.75 to $3.50. They bought five 900-lb. cattle from T. G. Cotton, at $2.75.

Farris & Whitley bought of T. P. Reid a bunch of shoats, 100 pounds average, at $4.50, and Andrew Whitley bought of Mills, of Lincoln, twenty head, same weight, at same price.—Danville Advocate.

A barn containing 24 cows and calves and one horse, the property of William Warfield, the wealthy Fayette county shot-horn breeder, was burned Tuesday night. The barn was valued $3,000 with 2,000 insurance. The cattle were worth $2,500; not insured.

COURT DAY.

Yesterday being the opening day of Circuit Court, as well as County Court day, there was a large crowd in town, notwithstanding the rain and mud. But little business reported by the merchants.

There were about 800 cattle on the market. The best cattle brought fair prices, ranging in price from 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 cents per pound.

W. P. Gay, of Clark county, bought of Allen McCormick 13 cattle, averaging 1025 lbs., at $3.65. T. H. Clay, of Bourbon, bought of Allen and Trimble 40 cattle, averaging 1100 lbs., at 34 cents.

Walter Sharp, of Bath county, bought 20 cattle of Allen and Trimble, averaging 1150, at 34 cents. The horse and mule market was almost a complete failure.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Moquette, 2:10, will join McHenry's stable in May.

San Pedro, 2:14 1/2, is a road-horse in New York now.

Anderson's Nightingale, 2:10 1/2, will be in George Starr's stable this year. Kentucky Breeders meeting at Lexington will give $70,000 in purses this year.

At least 1,500 trotting-bred stallions were gelded in Kentucky last year.

William Robinson, of Danville, Ky., has sold A. E. Cole, of Hudson, Mass., a 3-year-old colt by Nutcracker for $1,200. This fellow is fast, having paced a half last season in 1:03.

The syndicate that owns Axtell reports the earnings of that horse for the three years it has owned him as being $170,000. This leaves a very comfortable profit on the $105,000 paid for Axtell.—Horse World.

Doubtless believing the old saying that "a fair exchange is no robbery," A. H. Moore and George H. Ketcham have exchanged stallion services and the former will breed Margaret S., 2:12 1/2, by Director, to Robert McGregor while the Ohio breeder sends Nyansa, 2:15 1/2, by Robert McGregor, to the court of Director.

Fine roadsters are hard to find and bring good money. Our trotting horse breeders should pay more attention to individuals. Bred to a horse of good style and if the produce does not trot fast, you will have a horse that will bring big money for the road.

Barns For Rent.

I desire to rent on liberal terms for the season of 1894, the barns at Fair Grounds track, with track privileges. These barns are well built, with hydrants or cisterns. The track is first-class and never gets hard, making it one of the best ones in the country for training purposes. Or, will sell 100 acres of land including track and barns. GEO. W. Britain's Great Storm.

The most violent storm of recent years in the British Islands was that of November 16 to 20, 1893, in which the wind velocity was the greatest ever recorded for that portion of the globe. In an account to the Royal Meteorological Society, Mr. C. Harding states that in the Orkneys the wind velocity reached ninety-six miles an hour for one hour on the evening of November 16, and was over ninety miles an hour for five consecutive hours. At Holyhead a velocity of eighty-nine miles an hour was recorded, eighty miles or more an hour being maintained for eleven hours, sixty-five miles or more an hour—the force of a whole gale—for thirty-one hours, and a mean of fifty-four miles an hour for four and a half days. Many of the gusts were at the rate of 115 miles an hour, and in a squall at Fleetwood the rate reached 120 miles an hour.

The total reported loss of life on the coast was 335. The storm has been traced from the neighborhood of the Bahamas on November 7 across the Atlantic and over the British Islands to Central Europe on November 20.

One reason the American error of President Polk's war vessel Nitro was left the Brazilian service was that the ship, unfit for fighting, was loaded down with gunpowder, dynamite and wool, and the natives persisted in smoking aboard. Many of the sailors have arrived at Southampton, home-bound.

Evans Settle, of Owen County, as well as "Bill Owens, of Scott county, proposes to give the Silver-tongued assent for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the Ashland district. There will be some lively political wool pulling done in that neck of the woods in the not distant future.

The Coming South.

An expert manufacturer of cotton goods, clothes and yarns, Robert F. Barker, of Manchester, England is now in the South, after a thorough tour among the New England factories. At Charleston, a few days ago, he abandoned himself to the interviewer and gave expression to opinions which, by reason of the gentleman's experience, must attract attention. He asserts that the South will ultimately outstrip the North in the manufacture of fine yarns. He emphasizes this by the declaration that the climate of the South is better adapted to the work. All that is necessary, he declares, is the erection of the factories and the importation of the operative.—Cincinnati Post.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE

BLUE GRASS FARM!

I will on Tuesday, January 16, 1894, Sell to the highest bidder, a fine Blue Grass Farm. Sale on the premises, near July, Montgomery County, Ky., on the Mayville pike, five miles North of Mt. Sterling. Said farm contains 932 acres of as fine land as can be found in this section. It lays well, is well watered, is in high state of cultivation, has on it two or three tenant houses all in good repair. There is an Orchard of fine fruit on the farm, and altogether it is one of the most desirable places for a home anywhere. Title perfect. The fact that it is convenient to churches and schools will be considered no drawback. The sale is positive, and the highest bidder gets the farm. Sale to begin at 10:30 o'clock a. m. sharp. TERMS—made known on day of sale. Possession given March 1st, or sooner if desired. J. W. BURCHARDT, Assignee of J. M. ARMSTRONG.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." DR. G. C. OSBORN, Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ASCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves." DR. J. F. KINGSLEY, Conway, Ark.
